Testing for life

Ethylene oxide found in sesame seeds led to a recall and higher risks on food fraud.

Keep food fraud under control: knowledge is that first step

Stay up-to-date with the Eurofins International Food Integrity Bulletin.

Can you be sure you'll never be faced with food fraud? That suppliers right through the chain have never used other – lower-cost – ingredients without disclosing that? It's important to keep those risks under control. The more you know about food integrity and food fraud, the better you'll be prepared. Eurofins is looking for you worldwide for important information on a daily basis, and makes it available in the International Food Integrity Bulletin. And we'll be glad to share it with you!

What can you expect from the International Food Integrity Bulletin?

- ✓ 10 online editions per year subscription covering important information on supply chain and commodity views
- ✓ Actual information about the latest food fraud threats
- ✓ Worldwide Access to the Eurofins knowledge and laboratory network
- ✓ Trends in observed deviations on analysed food products
- ✓ High value for money

Show you have the knowledge you need

The Eurofins International Food Integrity Bulletin will not only save you time and increase your security. As a food producer or purchaser, a subscription to this bulletin will also prove that you're staying up-to-date with the latest developments in food fraud. That's a big advantage for BRC and FSSC certification, which looks specifically at this aspect.

For more information

For many years we have supported a range of customers with risk analyses, supplier audits, monitoring and much more to prevent food fraud in the chain. The Eurofins International Food Integrity Bulletin now enables us to help even more organisations to fight food fraud. If you would also like to be kept up-to-date with the latest developments in food integrity, or if you're looking for more information, just contact the International Food Integrity Team at foodintegrity@eurofins.com.
